NORWAY AND VICINITY
Boston Post Case.
Uncle Peter B. Buck received the cane Aug. 17, 1909, and at that time was in his 88th year. It came into the possession of William Henry Porter, June 17, 1911, and he is in his 89th year.
Mr. Porter does not need the cane in his daily walks and uses it only on Sundays and state occasions. We presume he will take it with him when he goes to Boston next month to visit his son, Charles H. Porter, the Summer Street marketman. Maybe he will call at the office of the Boston Daily Post and inspect the manner of printing presses in their sub-basement.
The friends of Mr. Porter insisted that he have the names of the holders of this cane engraved on the gold head. This was done by V. W. Hills, the jeweler, and the inscription reads: "Peter B. Buck—Aug. 17, '09; William H. Porter—June 17, '11. This engraving takes little space and there is room for a dozen more users of the cane."

NUMBER 39.

SEPTEMBER 29, 1911, NORWAY, MAINE.

VOLUME XLII.

Struck by Train.

Isaac H. Lord of Gray, formerly of Norway, went to the station with his team for Mrs. Robert M. Sykes and son, Payson Sykes, of Staten Island, N. Y. They were to visit Mrs. Sykes' brother, Albert Carey, of South Gray. This is an extremely dangerous crossing as the tracks are obstructed by high banks. Mr. Lord had started his horse, and just as he had driven on to the track the express train came rushing down upon the team. It was impossible then to avert an accident. The wagon had nearly crossed the track. All three occupants were thrown out of the wagon.
Mrs. Sykes was found dead about 50 feet from the track. She had fallen in a sort of a hollow by the track. Blood was flowing freely from her head. Her son, who was lying nearby, was bleeding from bad bruises about the head and appeared dazed, evidently not realizing what had happened.
Mrs. Sykes and her son occupied the back seat of the wagon and Mr. Lord was alone on the front seat. The train hit the rear wheels of the team on the side where Mrs. Sykes was sitting. Mrs. Sykes was about 70 years old. Mr. Lord was not thought to be seriously injured.

Will L. Libby is in charge of the paper and is desirous of securing at least $50 for the promotion of this movement. The object is to remove all the dangerous rocks and logs in and near the lake. Help the cause along and see what can be done to better present conditions.
The Lynn Evening News of Monday says: "Suffering from possible internal injuries and many body bruises, Mrs. O. W. Brown is confined to her bed in the Osmond House today and under a physician's care as the result of a fight among a crowd of men aboard a light Saturday night. Mrs. Brown was knocked down by one of the fighters and a pair of heavy feet held her to the floor until passengers went to her assistance and beat off the men who were paying no attention to the panic they were creating."

Camp Notes.

Albert Fog was our guest Sunday.
Walter Christian took the championship of horsehoes from Frank Lanes and defeated A. Fog in straight games, he has only to defeat A. Welch to claim the Camp Championship.
Now boys, men and women you know Roger Huthobis of Beverly is a candidate to the "World Series" and if you will just save your votes on Sunday and mail them to him on 46 Abbott Street, Beverly or at the American Office and the boys here will appreciate it very much. Now you men who are not married ought to pitch in with us boys and buy a few Sunday Papers and leave them at Foster's Barber Shop and Mr. Foster will take them to Beverly. So just drop a few pennies, enough for a paper or two and we will do the same for you if you ever enter one of these contests.
Arthur Welch has purchased a new motor-cycle from H. Tabbs.
Frank Lanes again came forward with some more doughnuts. Mr. Wood says, "Lanes please don't make any more of those awful sinkers." Arthur Welch tried his luck on some bread, pretty much bread I called it. Mr. Wood cooked the steak, he burnt it all up.

How to act in an emergency is knowledge of inestimable worth, and this is particularly true of the diseases and ills of the human body. If you suffer with backache, urinary disorders, or any form of kidney trouble, the advice contained in the following statement will add a valuable asset to your store of knowledge. What could be more convincing proof of the efficiency of Doan's Kidney Pills than the statements of nearby residents who have been permanently cured?

Mrs. S. F. Harlow, Skillings Avenue, South Paris, Me., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills at different times and I have always found them to be a good kidney remedy. I was in poor health some time ago and felt that my kidneys needed a tonic. I got a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and after I had taken a few doses, I received relief." (Statement given July 25, 1908.)

RE-ENDORSEMENT
On July 19, 1911, Mrs. Harlow was interviewed and she said: "I am glad to confirm the statement I gave three years ago, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. I still use them frequently, and they keep my kidneys in a normal condition." 38 89

Sweep Before Your Own Door.

Do we heed the homely adage, handed down from days of yore—
"Sweep before your own door,"
Let no dirt, no rust there gather, leave no sweeping to the wind?

Pinch up every weed unthinkingly, brush the fallen leaves away.

If we faithfully labor thus to sweep without within, Spurning evil speaking, malice and each dark weeds that by the sacred portals of the inner temples grow.

Poisonous weeds and heart defiling, bearing bitterness and woe; Then perchance, we may have leisure o'er our neighbors watch to keep.

All the work assigned us finished, we before Show him where the moss is clinging—token ever of decay.

Where the thistles, thickly springing, daily must be cleared away.

But, alas, our work neglecting, oft we mount our neighbor's roof; With his failings, his omissions, we our weary brother greet.

In some hidden nook, forgotten, searching with a careful eye. We the spring weeds discover—some slight blemish there deorsy.

For his slothfulness, his blindness, we condemn him in our pride; Boasting of our strength and wisdom, we condescend not to his plight.

Why grown careless, he has slumbered, failed On the judgment seat still sitting, we no help his hand extend.

To assist, our weaker brother his shortcomings to amend; For his weariness, his faltering, we no sweet commission show.

From our store no cordial bring him, no enjoining him to sweep; But, while busied with our neighbors, urging him to ceaseless care— Calling to the slothful idlers, to their labors to repair—

Lo! unseen the dust has gathered, weeds are flowering rare and sweet where our door. Ah, how easy o'er our neighbors faithful ward and watch to keep;

But, alas, how easy o'er our dwellings hard indeed to sweep; Harder than to share the conflict, "by the sword,"

Easier to sit in judgment, than to humbly watch and pray.

Wireless.
(Don C. Seitz, in Harper's Weekly.)
Mysteries are more on one than shore; So now to the wireless mark;
Buzzing like bees in angry seas It speeds to the given mark.

Out of the blight of the darkest night It feels its distant way.
Finding its ship in the deepest dip Amid the ocean's spray.

The sea sends its ghosts in mighty hosts To frighten the hands away;
St. Elmo's fires and words without wires In the storms and lightnings play.

Perhaps foul souls that seek their goals So being o'er the wire of day.
The searching spark in its worldwide arc That brings the message home!

Canning Fruits.

Canned fruits keep because the bacteria in them has been killed and others cannot enter if the air is excluded. A few kinds of bacteria can live without oxygen. If one of the germs is sealed in the can, the fruit will spoil even if the jar is airtight. Most kinds of bacteria are destroyed if kept at boiling point for 15 minutes.

Fruit put up in a large amount of sugar do not have to be sealed, but even preserves are better put in glass jars to protect from mould, which is apt to form on the top of a large open dish. Mould grows from spores which are always floating about in the air. When these small particles fall upon a moist surface, which furnishes suitable food, they at once multiply and soon cover the entire surface. Mould does not usually cause fermentation of fruits, but is the cause of decay in ripe fruit.

To kill mould spores fruit must be boiled and then kept in a cool, dry place well covered.

To sterilize utensils, put them in cold water and gradually bring them to boiling point, then boil 15 minutes. Glass cans and tumblers can be sterilized in the same way. They should remain in hot water till used.

Canning should be done when the air is free from dust. Towels as well as the hands and clothes of the worker, should be perfectly clean.

If tin or iron utensils are used in canning, the fruit will be discolored and a disagreeable flavor will be developed. The acid of the fruits act on these metals and form chemical combinations with fruit juices.

The ideal utensils to use in canning are enameled or porcelain lined.

Kettles for cooking fruit should be large enough to hold the fruit, and to have too many layers of fruit at once.

A wire basket for dipping the fruit into boiling water is a convenient utensil and a pair of scales is not only convenient but economical.

All imperfect fruit should be discarded for canning. Cut out the bad places and use them for jelly, marmalades, etc. The flavor of fruit is not developed till it is perfectly ripe, but fermentation begins so soon after this point is reached that it is much better to use fruit a little under ripe for canning.

Fruit should be canned as soon after picking as possible. If it is impossible to can it at once it should be kept in a cool place away from the flies.

Always leave the lids and cans in hot water till ready to use. Take one can at a time from the hot water and fill at once. Everything that ever used in the canning process should be thoroughly scalded, cups, spoons, knives, funnels and basins. The inside of the covers should never be touched, either with the hands or a cloth after it has been taken from the boiling water. Never wipe off the top of the jar after the fruit is in. The cans should always be filled to overflowing before they are sealed.

A Bargain Hunter Called.
Even bargain hunters sometimes get called. Once upon a time, as the story books say, a woman saw lamps shown in a store window on Central street for 10 cents each. Thinking this a fine chance to equip her home with light during the long winter she has hastened into the store and said to one of the pretty young lady clerks, "Do you take anything off if I want to buy half a dozen of those lamps?" This was a five and ten cent store with no three for a quarter bargains and the clerk replied, "Why yes we will take the chimneys off."

Eastern Maine's lumber cut is expected to fall off from 25 to 40 per cent coming winter. Operators give as the reason the fact that the drought of the summer has tied up many millions of feet of lumber in the woods, and that low water on the river has prevented the water mills from sawing the usual amount.

The lumber market in New York is at present off a condition which has prevailed in that market for some little time and that too will have its tendency to cut down the amount of the annual lumber harvest in the Maine forests.

It is a brave girl who goes without a bandana this winter, and a braver girl who wears one—they are rarely becoming.

Reciprocity was overwhelmed in Canada.

Sweep Before Your Own Door.

Do we heed the homely adage, handed down from days of yore—
Sweep your own door—
The rubbish from your floor.
Let no fifth, no rust there gather, leave no traces of dirt.

Pluck up every weed unthinkingly, brush the fallen leaves away.
If we faithfully have labored thus to sweep without, within,
Spurning evil speaking, malice and each dark weed that by the sacred portals of the inner consciousness grows the heart-dwelling, bearing bitterness and woe;

Then perchance, we may have leisure o'er our neighbors watch to keep;
All the work assigned us finished, we before his garden plot to keep.
Show him where the moss is clinging—taken over of decay.

Where the thistles, thickly springing, daily must be cleared away.
But, alas, our work neglecting, oft we mount the judgment seat,
With his failings, his omissions, we our weary brother greet;
In some hidden nook, forgotten, searching with a careless eye.

We the hidden weeds discover—some slight blemish there descry,
For his slothfulness, his blindness, we our brother harshly chide.
Boasting of our strength and wisdom, we condemn him in our pride;
Ask not what he has neglected thus before his door to sweep.

Why grown careless, he has slumbered, failed on the judgment seat still sitting, we no helping hand extend.
To assist our weaker brother his shortcoming to amend;
For his weariness, his faltering, we no sweet communion seek.

From our store no cordial bring him, no engaging smile, but while busied with our neighbors, urge him to ceaseless care—
Calling to mind his duties, to their labors to repair—
Lo! unseen the dust has gathered, weeds are growing, and sweet were blooming when we were before his door.

Ah, how easy o'er our neighbors faithful ward and watch to keep;
But, alas, before our dwellings hard indeed to sweep.
Harder than to share the conflict, "by the easier to sit in judgment, than to humbly watch and pray."

Wireless.

(Don C. Seitz, in Harper's Weekly.)
Mysteries are more on sea than shore;
So now to the wireless hark;
Buzzing like bees in angry seas
It speeds to the green mark.

Out of the blight of the darkest night
It feels its distant way,
Finding its ship in the deepest dip
Amid the ocean's spray.

The sea sends its ghosts in mighty hosts
To frighten the land and air;
St. Elmo's fires and words without wires
In the storms and lightnings play.

Perhaps you would like to see their goals
Go bearing o'er the foam.
The searching spark in its worldwide arc
That brings the message home!

HANOVER.

Mrs. Leon Roberts at this writing is in poor health.
Mr. Johnson of Boston is spending a few days with C. M. Richardson.

Many attended Canton Fair and spoke highly of the racing and other amusements. The apple crop is a large for many years. The trees can hardly hold the heavy load of fine fruit.

Mrs. R. M. Brown went to the Maine General Hospital Saturday. She has been in poor health several months. All roads lead to Adovser this week, for the World's Fair will be full blast and both young and old will be there.

Canning Fruits.

Canned fruits keep because the bacteria in them has been killed and others cannot enter if the air is excluded. A few kinds of bacteria can live without oxygen. If one of the germs is sealed in the jar without being destroyed by boiling, the fruit will spoil even if the jar is air-tight. Most kinds of bacteria are destroyed if kept at boiling point for 15 minutes.

Fruits put up in a large amount of sugar do not have to be sealed, but even glass jars are better put in glass jars to protect from mould, which is apt to form on the top of a large open dish. Mould grows from spores which are always floating about in the air. When these small particles fall upon a moist surface, which furnishes suitable food, they at once multiply and soon cover the entire surface. Mould does not usually cause fermentation of fruits, but is the cause of decay to ripe fruit.

To kill mould spores, fruit must be boiled and then kept in a cool, dry place well covered.

To sterilize utensils, put them in cold water and gradually bring them to boiling point, and boil 15 minutes. Glass cans and tumblers can be sterilized in the same way. They should remain in hot water till used.

Canning should be done when the air is free from dust. Towels as well as the hands and clothes of the worker, should be perfectly clean.

If tin or iron utensils are used in canning, the fruit will be discolored and a disagreeable flavor will be developed. The acids of the fruits act on these metals and form chemical combinations with fruit juices.

The ideal utensils to use in canning are enameled or porcelain lined.

Kettles for cooking fruit should be large enough, and it is better not to have too many layers of fruit at once.

It is of great importance in canning to have jars, rubbers and tops in perfect condition. Never use old tops with cracked hinges or old rubbers. Some housewives prefer wide mouthed jars that seal without rubbers.

Pint jars are more satisfactory for a small family than larger ones.

A wire basket for dipping the fruit into boiling water is a convenient utensil and a pair of tongs is not only convenient but economical.

All imperfect fruit should be discarded for canning. Cut out the bad places and use them for jelly, marmalades, etc. The flavor of fruit is not developed till it is perfectly ripe, but ripeness does not begin so soon after this point is reached that it is much better to use fruit a little under ripe for canning.

Fruit should be canned as soon after picking as possible. If it is impossible to can it at once it should be kept in a cool place away from the flies.

Always leave the lids and cans in hot water till ready to use. Take one can at a time from the hot water and fill at once. Everything whatever used in the canning process should be thoroughly scalded, cups, spoons, forks, knives, funnels and basins. The inside of the covers should never be touched, either with the hands or a cloth after it has been taken from the boiling water. Never wipe off the top of the jar after the fruit is in. The cans should always be filled to overflowing before they are sealed.

'Twas Ever Thus.

He finished up his college days And studied for the bar, And when a lawyer he became Was noted near and far, But after hanging out his sign He found it didn't pay, For people won't believe, you know, A word that lawyers say.

And then he thought he'd like to fish And bought some hooks and line, He found his luck had changed at last—The fish were biting fine, But people are suspicious, too, Of fishermen, 'tis said, And when he told his fishing tales Each man would shake his head.

And then he quit the fishing game—He had another plan. In Washington he now became A weather bureau man, But still he found his lot was hard And caused him much regret, For if he'd say the day'd be dry They thought it would be wet.

He started next a kind of bank, Not merely for his health, It was a get-rich-quick concern—He's rolling now in wealth. It's funny how the people act—In fact, it seems absurd, It wasn't till he'd taken 'em good That they would take his word. —Yonkers Statesman.

Why He Remained Away.
"Were you sick yesterday, Mr. Bobb?" asked the head of the firm.

"No, sir," replied the chief clerk. "Well, I didn't notice you at your desk."

"No, sir. I didn't come downtown."

"H'm! You know the rule here, do you not? No employee is permitted to be absent without a good excuse—sickness or an accident or something of that sort. I can't permit you to take liberties that are not enjoyed by other people who work in this establishment. I never am absent myself unless there is a very good reason. Did you stay away for pleasure—or on some other account?"

"I shall tell you the truth, Mr. Bud long. It was for pleasure."

"Bad, sir—very bad. I cannot permit it."

"But let me explain. You see, my wife was so hoarse that she couldn't talk, and I thought I'd like to spend the day at home."

"Oh, in that case, my boy, it's all right. Pardon me if I seemed to be arbitrary." —Chicago Record-Herald.

Mean Question.
Mrs. Tallit—Yes; she is a decided blond.

Mrs. Knockit—Indeed! When did she decide?—Milwaukee News.

An Unfortunate Example.
To a young man who stood smoking a cigar the other day there approached the elderly and impertinent reformer of immemorial legend.

"How many cigars do you smoke a day?" asked the meddler.

"Three," answered the youth as patiently as he could.

"How much do you pay for them?" "Ten cents," confessed the young man.

"Don't you know, sir," continued the sage, "that if you would save that money, by the time you are as old as I am you could own that big building over the way?"

"Do you own it?" inquired the smoker.

"No."

"Well, I do," said the young man—Tobacco Leaves.

"Looking With Favor on His Suit."

Dr. Yamel Kin, the only Chinese woman graduate of an American medical school, and her protegee, Miss Hsui Can Pai, who will study medicine at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, arrived in this country recently. Dr. Kin was one of the honor students at the New York infirmary some years ago and now heads the women's medical department of northern China, with headquarters at Peking. Miss Pai is an eighteen-year-old Manchou girl.

Women Still Bind the Feet in China.

"There is less binding of the feet," says Dr. Yamel Kin, "but there is some. The difficulty is perhaps with the taste of the men. They admire artificiality. All men do. Don't you think so? The Chinese man likes the pound foot and the binding step it entails just as much as we like high heels, eighteen inch waists and extraordinary long skirts. Some of our women who do not bind the feet get the same effect by wearing a very high heel inside the small Chinese shoe. That leaves only a small pointed toe showing. There is not much difference between that practice and the French heels some of our women wear. But perhaps your men are responsible for that too."

Newspaper For Children.
A daily newspaper exclusively for children, to be published in New York, is the project of Mrs. Ida Clyde Clarke of Nashville, Tenn. Her idea is to conduct the daily the same as any other newspaper, except that such reading matter as is sensational or otherwise objectionable for little readers will be omitted.

Save Your Brushes and Brooms.
Brushes and brooms would last much longer if they had an occasional bath. Four tablespoonfuls of household ammonia in two quarts of lukewarm water are the proper proportions. Let the brushes stand in the water for about half an hour, then drive thoroughly and hang them in a cool place to dry.

Are men as black," she queried. "As they are painted, do you think?" In Yankee style I answered her. "Are girls," I asked, "as pink?"

WEST PARIS.

Postal Savings Bank.

West Paris is to have a Postal Savings Bank and will be opened Oct. 16, which will be helpful to old and young as there is no system of banking in the place. This Savings Bank system is practically new having only been started in January 1911, when Uncle Sam put one bank in one town in each state of the United States.

Rumford was the first town in Maine to have one. These have succeeded so well that Uncle Sam will establish several hundred more and we are favored with one. Deposits of from one dollar up to fifty can be made by the individual per month and there is a stamp system whereby children can deposit less than a dollar. This will encourage the youngsters and teach them to save their pennies. The rate of interest is 2 per cent.

EAST OTISFIELD.

Mrs. Abbie Wardwell, wife of D. N. Thurlow, passed away Friday morning, Sept. 15th. She suffered a shock rendering her unconscious after a few moments until the end came in about one hour.

Mrs. Thurlow was 73 years old and had been in feeble health for some time, but had been able to be about the house as was her custom. She was a devoted wife and in every sense a home maker. A woman of true christian character has gone out of the home, neighborhood and church.

The funeral services were largely attended on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 17, at 2 p. m. at her home, Rev. S. E. Eaton officiating. "Some Blessing of the Day" and "Some Happy Day" were the two pieces of music sung by her special request. The floral offerings were many and beautiful.

Lester Jordan has finished work for C. O. Martin.

Mrs. Bertha Stone has been visiting her friend, Mrs. Sadie Smith. Sidney Goodspeed has been visiting his aunt, Mrs. Frank Spiller.

USEFUL NOVELTIES

Portable Refrigerators That Come in Several Sizes.

LATEST FAD IN CHINA.

Silver Deposit Ware Which is Delicate and Fairlylike, but Rather Expensive. Artistic Collapsible Sewing Stand For the Needlewoman.

If you care to spend the money, there are any number of ways in which you can make housekeeping a joy and a comfort. For instance, should you live in an apartment or just plain flat you will find a portable refrigerator useful. These are small boxes of zinc that will not exude moisture and retain the cold. They are provided with a handle and stout clasp to be easily carried and are small enough to stow in out of the way places.

These refrigerators come in several sizes, with an inner compartment to hold ice. The smallest will hold several bottles and is useful for a mother who otherwise would have to go to the large refrigerator in the middle of the night for baby's food.

On cold winter nights such a refrigerator is much better than setting food or drinks for an interval on an outer window shelf. There is not the danger of freezing.

On a motor trip one of these portable ice holders is invaluable and should be owned by those who tour.

For sickroom use there is another refrigerator the height of a chair seat and eighteen inches long. It can be had in various woods, zinc lined, and with commodious compartments. This has no handle, as it is a part of the furniture not to be carried. Then for the table there is the latest fad in china ware, deposit porcelain, a beautiful addition to one's china collection. This ware is almost fairlike in its delicacy of shape and in the delicate effect of the white silver on the white china. There are cups, jars, jugs and plates of the new silver deposit ware, and the illustration shows an almond basket, a jelly dish, a flat handled cake dish and a cracker jar.

The silver is applied to the eggshell china by a special process, and the pieces are, of course, rather high priced.

The collapsible sewing stand is another useful novelty for the woman who is handy with her needle. And the stand pictured is both pretty and practical. It consists of two sections and is made of heavy green crash tacked over a frame measuring 5 1/2 by 2 1/2 feet. On the inside are little brass hooks and a collapsible shelf covered with cretonne, and two large pockets at the base are also of the cretonne. A small pocket at the top for odds and ends of sewing is convenient. Other pockets are for buttons, and there are a pin cushion and a needlebook, both of the dainty cretonne.

A Walking Art Gallery.

The elaborate tattooing on a prisoner's arms attracted much attention at a London police court recently. The figure of a ballet girl, horseshoe, clasp hands, flowers, a tombstone with the words "In Memory of Mother and Father," a pierced heart and the inscription "I. L. Nell" all appeared with other smaller devices on the man's forearm.

BRYANT FOND.

Interested in the School. The reception to the teachers, Supt., School Board and pupils of Woodstock held at Grange hall Friday evening, was one of the pleasantest events of the season. Nearly all the schools were represented.

The program for the evening consisted of address of welcome, G. Q. Perham, master Franklin grange; Response, Clarence Cole, chairman School Board; remarks, Supt. Schools Herman C. Knight of South Paris; Mr. Fisher, Prin. Woodstock high school; Frank E. Davis, chairman Board of Selectmen; John Howe, chairman Com. of arrangements; Edwin Howe, first graduate of Woodstock high school and others. Recitations were given by Robert Cushman, Chase school; Raeburn and Lloyd Hathaway, and Helen Lappin, Whitman school. Piano selection and solo, Mildred Perham and Laura Day, High school; solo, Iona Farnum; recitations, Thelma Farnum, village grammar; and Florence Sessions, Billings school.

After the program a treat of candy, oranges and apples was served and the rest of the time was spent in games and dancing. As far as we know this is the first time that a reception has ever been given the teachers, but from the success of this meeting Friday evening it would not be surprising if it became an annual event.

Woodstock has always taken a keen interest in educational matters. While a small town it raises more money for its schools than many of its sister towns and with the past few years the schools have improved fast especially so since the town joined with Paris in the employment of a district Supt. Mr. Knight our present superintendent, has proved a right man for the place and has already made many friends in town. May the good work go on until the schools of Woodstock shall stand second to none in the state. It can be accomplished if we work together as citizens to bring it about.

Easy to Get Rid of Dandruff. Dandruff means that down near the roots of your hair there is a vast army of little invisible germs or microbes.

And this army never sleeps; it wages a war of destruction night and day. It destroys the nourishment that the hair must have in order to grow vigorously and abundantly.

PARISIAN SAGE now sold all over America will destroy these germs and at the same time furnish the hair roots with just the proper nourishment to make hair grow lustrous and luxuriant.

PARISIAN SAGE is guaranteed by Norway Drug Store to banish dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp and money back. It is a delightful favor pressing that wins instant favor and a refined woman. Norway Drug Store and druggists everywhere. Girl with Auburn hair try every carton and bottle.

FROM THE TROPICS TO HEAL US.

In Central America many natives are gathering the seeds of this plant, Cedron Seed, a rare medicine that has valuable curative powers. But few drug stores carry this seed, owing to the high cost of the article.

This country is a large consumer of this costly seed because it enters into the famous catarrh remedy, Fernu, sold the world over.

The Country School.

There are very few country schools anywhere in the United States. There are very many poor imitations of city schools scattered throughout our country districts. The country school must fit country life.

It must not only educate the boy and girl to love country life but must give them the ability and desire to improve it. We must make country life more attractive to our children.

If we can show the boy how to make twice as much money on a plot of land as his father has made, he is going to become interested in farm work.

If we can show him the difference between the cow that does not give enough milk to support herself and one that not only supports herself, but helps to support the boy, he is going to become interested in good dairy cows.

Likewise, we can interest the girls in so many things that will bring money into their hands.

The school must reach out and strengthen the social and economic (in other words, the everyday) life of the community in which it is situated. To do its work properly, it must touch intelligently, sympathetically, constantly, and conscientiously every social and economic interest that concerns the community.

Ten Commandments of a Spotless Town.

1. Don't throw anything on the sidewalk or street. Find a rubbish can.

2. Don't tear up paper and scatter it anywhere.

3. Don't let any piles of ashes or rubbish stay in your back yard.

4. Don't mix ashes and garbage in the same can. Pigs don't like to eat old coal or clinkers.

5. Don't fill the ash bin or garbage can too full.

6. Don't chalk the sidewalk, fences, buildings or pavements.

7. Don't deface park benches, school furniture or any public property.

8. Don't forget that horses love banana skins. A banana skin isn't dangerous if it is inside a horse's stomach.

9. Don't do anything that will bring disgrace to the town where you live.

10. Don't expect your village to become clean and perfect all at once. It will become an ideal city only when everybody does something every day to help make things better.

Fine Points.

Claus A. Spreckles, the sugar refiner, was talking about economies.

The Peach.

Peach Shortcake—Sift a teaspoonful of salt and a two rounded teaspoonful of baking powder into a quart of flour. Rub in three heaping tablespoonfuls of butter, then add a pint of rich milk and mix into a smooth dough, as soft as can be rolled out. Divide in half, butter both cakes with lard, then together in a baking tin and bake twenty minutes in a hot oven. Pare and slice two dozen ripe peaches, split the cakes apart, put a layer of peaches well sprinkled with sugar between the two, and place the rest on top. Serve with cream.

Peach Tapioca—Soak a half cupful of tapioca over night in plenty of cold water. In the morning cook until it is transparent. Butter a pudding dish, cover the bottom with a layer of sliced peaches sprinkled lightly with sugar. Now pour over the tapioca, which has been sweetened with a cup of sugar, grate in a little nutmeg and bake slowly until the peaches are done. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Peach Fritters—Separate two eggs, beat the yolks and add to them a teaspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt; then slowly add a cupful of hot sweet milk. Stir well, then add two cups of flour in which has been sifted a teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat the whites of the eggs to a stiff froth and fold them in, now stir in thin slices of peaches. Drop from the spoon into boiling lard and fry a light brown. Serve hot with sauce flavored with peach juice.

Peach Delight—Pare, cut in half and stone a dozen fine ripe peaches, reserving a few of the pits. Boil the pits in half a cup of water for fifteen minutes, then strain. Mix well together a generous half cup of sugar and a tablespoonful of flour. Butter a deep pudding dish well, put in a layer of peaches, sprinkle with sugar, dot with bits of butter, cover with another layer of the peaches and proceed in this way until all used. Pour over the water which was strained off the pits. Make a rich biscuit crust for the top, roll out about half an inch thick place it over the fruit, make several incisions to allow the steam to escape and bake in a moderate oven. In serving cut the crust in pieces as for pie, put the fruit on top and cover with whipped cream.

NOT A WORD OF SCANDAL.

marred the call of a neighbor on Mrs. W. P. Spangh of Manville, Wyo., who said: "She told me Dr. King's New Life Pills had cured her of obstinate kidney trouble and made her feel like a new woman." Easy, but sure remedy for stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Only 25c at the Noyes Drug Store. 35-39

An exchange says:—Housewives who are paying severe penalties for more for their sugar just now during the canning season, may be interested to know that a British steamer arrived in Boston one day last week with a cargo of 700,000 worth of sugar from Tjilatjap.

The steamer left Java for Boston, July 30th, and owing to the sharp advance in sugar her cargo increased in value $150,000 while en route. Uncle Sam will be $250,000 richer when the duty on this cargo is paid, and perhaps the ultimate consumer can figure out who pays the tax in the end.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our kind friends for their most kindly assistance and sympathy in our bereavement, and also for the beautiful floral offerings so generously given.
MRS. MARY H. GRANT
DANA H. GRANT.

LOCKE'S MILLS.

The death of Dana B. Grant occurred at his late home Wednesday, Sept. 20, 1911, at the age of 68 years, of heart disease from which he had suffered many years.

Mr. Grant was a veteran of the War of the Rebellion serving his country for three years as a private in Co. F, 17th Reg. Me. Vol., during which time he participated in many of the fiercest battles of the war, among which were Petersburg, Fredericksburg, Wilderness, Chancellorsville, Appomattox, Gettysburg.

While in the service he was taken prisoner by Mosby's Guerrillas at Snickers Gap, Va. He was paroled and came home on a furlough after which he returned to Washington, D. C., and while at Fort Gribble on guard duty at night, shot what was supposed to be a rebel spy, but upon examination proved to be a bull. Colonel Mattox had the horns mounted and sent to Mr. Grant, who counted them one of his most valued relics of the war. He was honorably discharged June 4, 1865.

Mr. Grant has lived at Locke's Mills nearly all his life, and will be greatly missed by all. Although for many years he has been blind and was deprived of so many things he enjoyed, he was always cheerful and kind to all, ever ready to help in every good cause. He left a wife and son to mourn his loss.

The funeral was held at his home Friday afternoon at one o'clock, Rev. W. F. Curtis of Bethel officiating. By request Dr. Wright of Bethel rendered the hymn, "When the Mists Have Rolled Away." The floral tributes were many and very beautiful.
